JONAH: THE NARROW NATIONALIST REBUKED

LESSON TEXT—Jonah 3:1-5,10; 4:1-11.

GOLDEN TEXT—And Peter opened his mouth, and said, Of a truth I perceive that God is no respecter of persons: but in every nation he that feareth him, and worketh righteousness, is accepted to him.

PRIMARY TOPIC—God's Love for All Nations.

JUNIOR TOPIC—God's Love for all the World.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—What Is True Patriotism?

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Patriotism and World Brotherhood.

In teaching this lesson it will be necessary to sweep into view the entire Book of Jonah.

I. Jonah's Call and Commission (Ch. 1:1, 2).

Jonah, a Jew, was called to go and preach repentance to a Gentile city. (Gen. 12:1, 2). The story of Jonah graphically portrays the history of Israel as a nation. God separated Israel to be the channel through which his mercy and salvation are to be carried to all nations. They, like Jonah, have been recreant to duty. Because of this, God has caused them to be swallowed up by the nations which will one day spew them out upon dry ground—Palestine. After severe chastisement, they will discharge their obligation, and the nations through their ministry will repent and turn to God.

II. Jonah's Flight From Duty (1:3).

He turned his back upon God and attempted to flee from his presence. In the same way Israel has become an apostate people.

III. Jonah's Correction (1:4-2:10).

1. Overtaken by a storm (v. 4).

Trouble soon came upon the disobedient servant of God. So with the Jews. misfortune after misfortune have overtaken them because they turned from God. They are now tossed about by the surging of the nations.

2. Cast overboard (v. 15).

In their perplexity the sailors cast lots, and the lot fell upon Jonah. According to his own direction they cast him overboard. God had prepared a great fish which swallowed him.

3. Jonah's deliverance (Ch. 2).

Jonah in his affliction turned to God and prayed (James 5:13). God miraculously preserved him while in the belly of the fish, and he has miraculously preserved Israel in the heart of the nations. The fish could not digest Jonah, neither can the nations digest Israel. Jonah repented while in the fish. So Israel will repent as they go into the great tribulation. God made the fish to vomit out Jonah. So he will at the proper time cause the nations to cast out Israel.

IV. Jonah's Commission Renewed (Ch. 3).

His experience made him willing to do God's bidding.

1. His field (v. 2).

He was to go to Nineveh, a large city, the people of which were cruel. Israel's field is the Gentile nations.

2. His message (v. 4).

He was instructed to "preach the preaching" commanded by God. Forty days were given to the people in which to repent. God's supreme desire is that all should repent (II Peter 3:9). This message represents the heart of God in his dealing with sinners.

3. Repentance of the Ninevites (vv. 5-5).

(1) They believed God (v. 5).

They believed that God was speaking to them through Jonah about their sins, and was announcing impending judgment.

(2) They proclaimed a fast (vv. 5-8).

The king and people joined sincerely in this movement. They put on sackcloth, the sign of penitence.

(3) They reasoned that God would repent (v. 9).

The sending to them of a prophet encouraged them to believe that God would show mercy if they repented.

V. Jonah's Behavior (Jonah 4:1-11).

1. He repines at God's action (vv. 1-3).

He now makes known the real reason for his flight from duty. He knew that the gracious God would spare the people who repented. The treatment of the Israelites at the hand of the Ninevites was such that Jonah did not want God to forgive them. We have here a case of a preacher of repentance mortified when the people repent and are pardoned.

2. God reproves Jonah (vv. 4-11).

By means of the gourd God showed him his error. This closing scene affords a striking example of the patience and pity of God in contrast with the hard-heartedness of man.

Our Religion

Our religion is, indeed, a thing between God and our own soul; but it is also a thing between us and society, and to attempt to isolate and secrete it is to deprive it of a thousand influences and excitements essential to its perfection.—William L. Watkinson.

A Chapter a Day

A chapter a day may not altogether keep the tempter away, but it will put him to a great disadvantage.—Watchman Examiner.

NUPTIAL PACT IS FOUND IRON-CLAD

Binds Wife Never to Claim Husband's Money.

Norfolk, Va.—A marriage contract so binding upon the wife that she agrees never to claim a dollar of her husband's money and never to run up a bill of any kind without his written consent caused possibly the widest domestic discussions in Virginia history.

"It emphasizes the true love of that union," the Rev. Thomas A. Smoot, pastor of Epworth Methodist church, who performed the wedding ceremony, told the United press in discussing the marriage of Mary Louise Baker, twenty-three-year-old school teacher, and Carl Moore Jordan, fifty-year-old lumberman.

Who originated the contract, which was signed a month before the wedding, Rev. Smoot could not say. It's more than 2,000 words, however, stripped the marriage of every suspicion of mercenary motive and in effect reduced the wife to the status of a daughter of Jordan's eighty-four-year-old mother, with whom the couple live.

Even the widely-known words—"And with all my worldly goods I thee endow"—were pruned out of the Methodist marriage ritual by mutual consent.

Miss Baker, who met Jordan four years ago, solemnly agreed to "surrender her youth to meet the requirements of a man of fifty years of age." In turn, Jordan made clear that he undertook only "to assume the responsibilities and requirements of a man of fifty years of age" under the circumstances.

Well Out of the League
Mr. Coolidge Observes
Thirty Cents an Hour
Science Makes Cheap Wheat

Britain, greeting with cool cordiality the French proposition for a "United States of Europe," insists that a federation of European States, whatever it may be "shall remain within the League of Nations."

In other words it would be part of the League, which would be a sort of super-government, above the various "United States of Europe" settlement.

That is another reason for being grateful that this country did not get caught on the League of Nations fly paper.

If we were in the League we might find ourselves a subordinate transAtlantic feature of the new federation of Europe.

We have had our ups, and we have our present downs, but at least we can be grateful that, thanks to Providence and a few men of intelligence, we kept out of that League.

The Argentine revolution rolls on successfully. If there are any investors, they say nothing. The new president is obeyed.

You will learn, without surprise, that Europe blames the revolution on the United States. In Rome the Fascist newspaper Il Tevere says South America's trouble is imitating the United States, its Constitution and its centralizations of power. Also "the famous Monroe Doctrine" is a disturbing factor.

If it were not for that doctrine, Japan might have half of South America today and Germany the other half.

But we can afford to let that go, provided we do not let the Monroe Doctrine go.

Calvin Coolidge, sweeping, with exploring eye, the world's surface and past history, discovers that man is his own worst enemy.

There was an earthquake in Naples, a tornado in San Domingo, with a few thousand killed in each disaster.

The world shuddered in sympathy. At the same time 5,000 tribesmen were "buried into eternity" around Mount Ararat, many thousands are killed and die of starvation because of war in China, and we think little about it.

The Prince of Wales and his brother George are to have an airfield at Sandringham, the royal residence in Norfolk, with a hangar for each Prince. This will amuse the Princes and encourage flying, even in this country.

Some proud American will say, "If a landing field and a hangar is good enough for two Princes, I'm not too good for my boy," and more hangars will be built over here.

The railroads are carrying out "a constructive programme" that will cost one billion dollars.

They know that prosperity is coming back, and are determined to be ready for it.

It would interest, and perhaps shock, President Hoover to learn that a constructive programme work is being done at the rate of thirty cents an hour, paid to common labor.

But it would be no favor to the men at work to discourage railroad enterprise and increased employment. In certain lines, based on the fact that labor is willing to work for less.

It is hard for a radical to remain radical, after he becomes successful. Ramsay MacDonald on a vacation first stopped at magnificent Dunrobin Castle, far north in Scotland, as guest of the Duke and Duchess of Sutherland.

From Dunrobin he went to Loch Chule to visit the Marquis and Marchioness of Londonderry.

And at this moment he is at Balmoral Castle, spending a few days with the King and the Queen.

Napoleon, when he invented the Legion of Honor, said that with a little piece of red ribbon he could lead a good "imperialist" to the wildest radical.

A few week-ends with dukes, marquesses and the King and Queen of England can do a good deal to modify the radicalism of a Prime Minister when they happen to have one.

Farmers should know that science is responsible for the surplus crop and low price of wheat. Thirty-two years ago, a great scientist, Sir William Crookes, told the British Scientific Association "unless something is done to prevent it, 1931 will see such a lack of wheat as will cause wide spread starvation."

And now, 1930 sees more wheat than the people can eat.

Professor Byer tells the British Science Association that science has done more than Sir William Crookes expected. Botany and scientific production of fertilizers, nitrogen especially, have extended the northern limits of wheat production so far that any possibility of shortage vanishes.

Felt Bad After Eating

"Before I started taking Black-Draught, three years ago, my health was entirely run down. Mrs. C. C. Carson, 945 Concord St., Beaumont, Texas. "I suffered constantly from constipation. I had headache when I got up in the morning, and I felt dull and sluggish. I hardly ate a meal that my food agreed with me. Frequently I would have gas on my stomach, and felt awful.

"I read about Black-Draught, and I thought it might help me. After I had taken it a little while, I felt much better. It relieves constipation. I keep it on hand so when I need a laxative I will have it. In the three years I have been taking it, I have never found anything as good for constipation."

Pilgrimage to Stratford Hall

Tuesday about eighteen people from our town, U. D. C. members and others interested in visiting historic places, chartered a bus and drove to Stratford Hall. This ancient manor, the birthplace of the immortal Robert E. Lee, has been bought by the Robert E. Lee Memorial Association and is being preserved for posterity. It was here that five members of the Lee family, distinguished in the Revolutionary War period, were born. There are many unusual features connected with this old Virginia mansion. The fire-place in the kitchen is said to be the largest in America. In the days gone by a fair-sized ox was cooked in its capacious depths. being roasted whole. There are four century old, English Beechwood trees. The house is built in the shape of the letter H, and contains twenty large rooms.

Westmoreland county has been called the "Athens of Virginia" on this historic county George Washington and James Monroe were born. The Appomattox delegation stopped at "Wakefield" the boyhood home of George Washington. The original house has been burned, but the work of rebuilding it is now under way, and when it has been completed a great celebration is being planned. The magnificent cedar grove around the ancient ruins, is estimated to be in part at least, two hundred years old. Situated on the placid Potomac, it is a delightful spot. It is being converted into a park by the U. S. Government.

Another place of interest visited was Fredericksburg. The James Monroe House, "Kenmore", and the home of Mary Ball, the mother of Washington, were historic points seen.

Those who went on the pilgrimage were: Mesdames L. Crawley, D. N. Twyman, Blanche Blake, Florence Carson, C. F. James, Mary Childress, Elizabeth Ford, E. E. Ugly Word, Revolution. Magic Words, Gold, Treasure. To Help Business, Spend. Miss Hurst's Marmoset.

It was simple for our Government of "best minds" to snub the Russian Government because it wouldn't repay millions that American bankers lent to the Czar and Kerensky. But there are other "red" things outside of Russia to worry those best minds.

There is threat of revolution in the Argentine. The President of the South American republic, living in his dwelling as in a fortified castle, summons warships to his display of military strength.

Brazil sends news of threatening revolution.

The President of Peru has been kidnaped.

India and Egypt worry the British.

China worries the whole world.

Lower prices for stocks, lack of employment, diminished output, worry us.

The world had its war, its assorted prosperity booms, and now it has the pleasure of paying for both.

Most serious for the fifty-nine or sixty-four that govern by the power of organized money, according to our ambassador Gerard, is the world-wide threat of revolution.

It is hard to believe, but just conceivable that the number of human beings on earth might become more important than the number of organized dollars.

Mr. Shillito, quoted in the Christian Century, describes Russia's "bold and unfaltering offer of an alternative to the old order." That means government for men, instead of men for profit."

Our best minds would do well to think about that.

This is the age of rackets. Rackets in milk, whiskey, cleaning and dyeing, laundry work, labor saving devices, the latest, an unemployment racket.

New York's free employment agency finds the same faces returning after getting jobs.

The racket is to get your job, sell it to a man out of work, come back and get another.

Gold and treasure are words that excite nearly all men.

Italian divers, clad in iron, going down 400 feet to the bottom of the Atlantic, and up again as rapidly as swift elevators in our skyscrapers, have discovered the British treasure ship, Egypt, with $5,000,000 of gold and silver in her hull, lying on the gray sand on the ocean's floor.

No difficulty in persuading Italian divers to go 400 feet down. They would go to the earth's centre if Mussolini ordered it and they could get there.

The literary and intelligent Fannie Hurst returns from Europe with a pet marmoset, so small it sits in a large pocketbook. She should write about husbands of the future, who will probably dwindle to about that size, in the course of evolution.

The giant sea crab when you catch one, is always female and of great size. She carries the male crab, about as big as a ten cent piece, under one of its flippers, except on rare occasions. Husbands may dwindle down to that, when man has no harder work than pushing a button. Size and muscle will no longer count.

But woman will remain of full size, because of her maternal duties, and for other reasons.

The female spider is ten times as big as her husband, and eats him after marriage. Human husbands should not complain.
